

BLAINE URGES RIGID ECONOMY IN STATE

ALLIES TO REFUSE GERMAN OFFER ON REPARATION DEBT

SIMONS ADVANCES PROPOSAL TO PAY $7,500,000,000 OF BILL.

WAS $56 BILLIONS

Lloyd George Says There Is No Use Wasting Time to Read Terms.

London.—Germany, through her delegates to the conference with the allies here, has made a proposal of approximately thirty billion gold marks, or about $7,500,000,000. The allied demands as drafted at the conference in Paris Jan. 20 called for the payment of $22,000,000,000 gold marks or $5,500,000,000 in 42 annual payments.

It was understood that after Dr. Walter Simons, the German foreign minister, had delivered his statement on reparations to the conference, Mr. Lloyd George, British prime minister, would have something more to offer than appeared in Dr. Simons' statement; there was no need of continuing the conference.

To Give Reply Wednesday

Mr. Lloyd George told the German foreign minister that the allies would accept the German proposal on the condition that it was the same general character as the explanation of them, it isn't worth while for us to read them. You have a complete lack of comprehension of the position of the allies and of your own position. We will discuss among ourselves our reply and give it to you Wednesday at 11 o'clock.

Dr. Simons in effect said Germany would pay fifty billion marks, subjects to the various discounts and reductions and the sums already paid.

Seek Allied Loans

Premier Briand said the proposals amounted to an offer that if the allies would advance Germany money on favorable terms, the Germans would pay back the money in 42 years. Dr. Simons said that the capital sum of about thirty billion marks was taken now; it would amount to about 220,000,000 marks in 42 years at 5 percent.

Among the important points in the proposals advanced by Dr. Simons were his insistence that Germany's obligations be definitely fixed and his representation that Germany was expected to reach her maximum capacity to pay in 1929, when the reparations would be paid in full.

Dr. Simons said the difficulties which rendered the acceptance of the Paris reparations proposals impossible were due to the fundamental controversy involving the raising of Germany's productive efforts to a maximum in order to enable the victors to meet their obligations and the prevention of German competition becoming a menace to other nations.

Is Monthpiece for Berlin

Dr. Simons said that he had given the German people a monthpiece for Berlin. He said that he had given the German people a monthpiece for Berlin. He said that he had given the German people a monthpiece for Berlin.

LABOR CHIEF RAPS "BIG BUSINESS"

Makes Plea for Emancipation of Labor—Blames Capital for Unrest.

Placing the responsibility for the present unemployment at the feet of big business, declared to be in absolute control of the legislature, press, courts and pulpit, Henry Ohl, general organizer for the State Federation of Labor, made a plea for stronger labor organization and cooperation so they can accomplish the emancipation of labor and rectify the present industrial unrest. He spoke to a crowd at Central Labor Hall, here Monday night.

"We have seen the railway of individual bargaining," declared Ohl, "and we are going to see the railway of collective bargaining. We must have organization, to represent the laboring class. Big business has seen the value of organization to get what they want and it is absolutely necessary for labor as well. If we can find no other way to get our needs from the industrial kaisers, then we may resort to strikes."

TRAIN WRECK IS PROBED BY COUNTY, STATE, RAILROADS

INDIANA OFFICIALS AND RAIL MEN TRY TO DETERMINE CAUSE.

DEATH TOLL LESS

Estimates Now Place Number of Victims of Tragic Crash at 38.

Valparaiso, Ind.—Mandamus proceedings against the Indiana Central Railroad company were filed in the superior court at Valparaiso by Dr. C. W. K. Briggs, Chicago, to compel the railroad to hold an immediate inquest into the death of 38 persons in the Porter, Ind., train wreck Sunday.

Porter, Ind.—Investigations by Indiana state officials and New York Central Railroad officials were continued Tuesday to determine the cause of the wreck here Sunday night fatal to 38 passengers and 100 on board the Michigan Central train. The estimate of dead has been decreased from 43 with the finding of more "missing."

Members of the Michigan Central train crew were cited all day Monday with General Superintendent J. J. McKee, but no statement was given out. The inquiry was conducted at Niles, Mich.

State Makes Survey

Henry Zink and J. Q. Martin, of the Indiana Public Service commission, were on the scene making a survey for the state.

County officials of Porter county took steps to have Coroner Joseph C. Porter, county clerk and Sheriff Charles Whitehead, installed the New York Central train was given the right of way and that the Michigan Central train signals were always remain at "stop" until a train approached.

Several Still Missing

Of the 35 bodies taken to the Chesapeake identification had been made of all except two, but some of these were regarded as unidentified. The coroner declared the death toll would not exceed 38, but information showed a half dozen persons still unaccounted for.

Four More Identified

Identification of four bodies completed the list of dead. The total was fixed at 37, of which 35 had been identified. The bodies were taken to the morgue, a mile from this hotel. The last body identified was that of Mrs. Theodore Baskins, Chicago. Relatives identified the body of Mrs. Katherine Jones, Chicago.

Governor Places Burden of Deficit on Big Incomes

Bayonet Points in Message of Governor Blaine

BY GOV. JOHN J. BLAINE.

To postpone a day of reckoning is not economy. To temporize with conditions that could be corrected is not statesmanship. To permit the state's property to go into disrepair and decay is the utmost extravagance, for the old adage, "a stitch in time saves nine," applies to a state and her institutions, as well as to individuals.

In justice to the taxpayers of this state, I can look only with disfavor upon any program of construction and expansion that exceeds an average amount in new construction and additions to the state property during the periods covered by the tables.

No public official, having the responsibility of his department and the expenditure of money appropriated thereto, has any right, legally or morally, to create an obligation against the state, without an appropriation therefor.

In making appropriations for new buildings and new construction, the question to be answered is: Is the new construction or the new building absolutely necessary at this time, and cannot the proposed undertaking be deferred without doing an injustice or an injury to the public interest? If the proposed undertaking is not necessary and if the public interest will not suffer material injury, then clearly the appropriation should not be made.

A public official who creates a condition that brings about a deficiency in his department has usurped powers, and brings himself within the prohibition of the statutes.

Public officials and employees should be paid reasonable compensation, but a state can never expect to compete with private business in meeting salary demands.

I find that there is a great variance in the amount of salary paid to public officials and public employees in the respective departments and institutions under the control of the state, and in fact, a gross discrimination exists in many of the departments and institutions.

On the other hand, we must not forget that, notwithstanding all these demands of a modern civilization, there is a limit to the amount that people can pay.

Under no circumstances should there be any additional mill taxes levied against the general property, nor should there be any increase in taxation on the general property.

The thing to be sought is a more efficient and economical administration, and it is my opinion that such could be accomplished if each administrative board and commission had a single official, instead of a multiple membership where the responsibility is divided, except as to those boards and commissions which have quasi-judicial functions.

The appropriations made in 1919 for the biennial period, exceeds the receipts by about $3,000,000. The request for appropriations of receipts for the biennial period for 1921-22 would be $7,880,465 and for 1922-23 would be $8,554,228.

And in my opinion, the estimate of receipts for the biennial period for 1921-22 would be $7,880,465 and for 1922-23 would be $8,554,228.

RECOMMENDS THAT LEGISLATURE LEVY SURTAX TO FILL COFFERS.

IN FINANCIAL HOLE

Wisconsin Deep in Debt, Funds Allowed for Necessities Only.

Madison.—Income taxes will be increased through levy of a surtax by the legislature to fill the state's depleted coffers and to help pull Wisconsin out of the financial hole into which it has fallen as a result of the past two years' operation of Governor Blaine's budget.

Under no circumstances should there be an additional mill tax levied against the general property, nor should there be any increase in taxation on the general property.

In considering appropriations, the legislature should give great weight to the fact that we are now in a period of depression, with a tremendous falling off in the wages of workmen, and that the next biennial will in all probability be a period of abnormal conditions, such as had it not worse than the two years preceding the armistice, and much worse than the period since the armistice.

Economy Is Vital

While stating that "it would be an unwise financial policy for the state to neglect any necessary or essential needs of its institutions," Governor Blaine said that "in studying the financial condition of the state, the annual conditions of economy become more and more urgent."

Needs Receipts

He pointed out that for the present year the total appropriations made by the 1919 legislature will exceed the receipts by about $2,000,000, and that the estimated receipts for 1921-22 would be $7,880,465 and for 1922-23 would be $8,554,228.

HOUSE TO KEEP OFF MATTHESON'S BILL

Prohibition Leaders Prefer Amendment Action be Taken in Senate.

Madison.—Prohibition leaders of the assembly will not let the Mattheson bill in order to adopt the Cook amendment, striking out the provision dealing with testimony, have reconsidered their own decision and say that they will probably move against bringing up the measure again.

They are none too confident of the assembly's action on the measure now to have the dry senate propose a change similar to that of Assemblyman Cook, and adopt it without further delay.

The Mattheson bill as accepted in the assembly would place anyone with an order of liquor on his back subject to a fine of $200 should he violate the law, and anyone who "believes" to have knowledge of any violation of the law, refuse to answer questions.

It is also pointed out that a joker would "repeal" favorably to moonshiners and bootleggers. This would make the testimony of any person examined under oath cannot be used against him in any criminal prosecution.

The amendment to strike out these provisions of the bill, which was adopted by the assembly, is now being considered by the senate.
